93+++ POINTS

"Classical dry country northern Barossa red, this. It has the prettiest confectioner's bouquet. while below simmers the licorice, the deep dark berries, the prunes, dried figs and pithy tannins, like dried apple. There is no intrusive oak, and while the alcohol is big, the wine has the density to balance it, and the structure to ensure it lasts a good twenty years".

Philip White, Independent Weekly, 18th June 2010

Wines To Cellar

"...The 2008 Eduard is ultra-dense and powerful, has floral aromatics, layer upon layer of ripe blackberry, mulberry and dark chocolate flavours, a plush fleshy texture and substantial yet fine slinky tannins. Will improve over the next five years and, if cellared well will be at its peak in 10".

Peter Forrestal, Gourmet Traveller Wine, February/March 2012

"Magnificent opaque black crimson colour with black heart and very deep black crimson hue displaying outstanding colour saturation... The palate boasts superb concentration and richness with super ripe flavours of blackberry and dark plum... Outstanding depth of flavour. Velvet smooth tannins with very long aftertaste of blackpepper. Mocha and blackberry".
