Grenache Shiraz
2006

Best Red Wines
over $15.00

Troy and Tony Kalleske are part of the Artisans of the Barossa, a group of small producers dedicated to preserving the rich traditions of the region. While many of their wines are sourced from dry-grown old vines and are consequently priced beyond everyday drinking, this easy-drinking Barossa Grenache blend represents outstanding value. It has bright, primary red berry fruit and lush texture with a gentle, gravelly edge.

Exceptional Value

This Barossa powerhouse was awarded Top Red Blend and Top Red in the $30-to-$40 (CAD) range at the year's Port of Wines Festival.

Deeply concentrated and already developed red fruit, with clove, cinnamon and peppery notes, and shows compote-like richness on the nose. Flavours display similarly intense rich, ripe sweet berry and red plum, backed up by firm tannic structure and complex fruit, fine spice and dark chocolate on the finish. Best with another three-plus years in the cellar.

Good colour; great wine at the price; super abundant blackberry, licorice and cherry fruit supported by soft tannins and incidental oak.

2006 Kalleske Clarry's Grenache Shiraz

This grenache shiraz blend is a terrific, robust, sweet-fruited, spicy red with heaps of flavour and richness but balanced, not overly alcoholic and highly gluggable. Gold Medal.

Dark and rich and savoury, such concentrated fruit it is almost bitter. But there's still a freshness and rounded velvety tannins. Sweetly spiced.

Kalleske Clarry's Grenache Shiraz 2006

Clarry rhymes with d'Arry and although they'd both appreciate a glass of this easygoing red blend, Clarry hails from the Barossa, d'Arry from the Southern Vales. Approachable and entirely reliant on fruit quality, this is a soulful, Balanced bargain.

2006 Kalleske Clarry's Red 89 points

The 2006 Clarry's Red is a blend of 65% Grenache and 35% Shiraz from vines averaging 31 years of age with yields of 2.25 tons per acre. It spent 10 months in used French and American oak. Dark ruby-colored, it exhibits aromas of earth, mineral, forest floor, black cherry, and blueberry. Medium-bodied, it delivers ample, spicy red fruit flavors in a rustic style, with some ripe tannin holding things together. Drink it over the next 3-4 years with bistro cuisine.

2006 Kalleske Clarry's Red

Kalleske is a certified organic vineyard in the Greenock sub-region in the north of the Barossa: some biodynamic methods are also employed here. This everyday-drinking grenache-shiraz blend is a terrific, robust, sweet-fruited, spicy red. It has heaps of flavour and richness but it's not overly alcoholic; it's a relatively moderate (by modern Barossa standards) 14 per cent. Kalleske's rich and powerful 2005 Greenock Shiraz also did well in the show winning a strong silver medal.

These guys are making excellent wine across the board, and this one's textbook new Barossa. Approachable and plush, with some opulent choc chip notes. The Grenache is dominant, from 60 year-old vines.

Kalleske Clarry's Basket Pressed Grenache Shiraz 2006...

Quality: Good.

Value: Above Average.

Looks: Dark purple, with a heavy look.

Smells: Licorice and cocoa on the nose.

Feels: Full bodied.

Tastes: A very well made wine that shows off ripe round fruit flavours and even chocolate smoothness from well used oak. Although there is a lot of grenache in the blend, there is not much raspberry flavour in the mix here - this is still a plum dominated flavour palate with supporting spice and chocolate. A little heat prickle on the finish does not wreck this too much.

Good long length.

For the money, a real winner.

JUST A TOUCH OF WILDNESS

2006 KALLESKE CLARRY'S RED $19

The blend of certified organic Barossa grenache and shiraz grapes is bursting with rude good health and vibrant flavour. There's raspberry and plum and redcurrant aplenty, but underneath it all, holding it in check, a wilder, earthy, forest fruitiness. Yum.

4.5 stars

An impressive young red from the Kalleske family, whose winegrowing history in the Barossa Valley dates to 1838. Clarry's is produced from certified organic vineyards in the northwest corner of the valley and is a fine example of just how well matched these two varieties can be in good hands. Ripe red and black fruits, some sweet spice and chocolate, good depth of flavour, well rounded with balanced tannin and drinking well now.

Kalleske 2006 Clarry's...

A blend of Grenache and Shiraz, the wine is sealed under screwcap. A red spectrum bouquet with raspberry, spice, rose petals and vanilla; it certainly holds one's interest. Although the wine is fruit driven, there is sufficient supporting tannins for this ample-weight, solid and open wine, with a diverse complexity, and soft consistency. Best described as a WYSIWYG wine, the palate is chock full of raspberry, dark chocolate, blackberry, and coffee bean. The layer of sweetness is cut through by refreshing acid and contrasted by off-sweet flavours. A very easy-drinking, uncomplicated crowd-pleaser, it's rated as Recommended with * for value.

Kalleske Clarry's Grenache Shiraz 2006...

This wine is a delightful purple red color. The nose is fabulous, dark plums, blackberries, blueberries, with a slight dusting of icing sugar, exotic spices, and a savory earthiness all mingled together. The palate is not a let down it's absolutely delicious, that plummy blackberry fruit, mingled with dark raspberries, pure fruited, long and lively. It has a real creaminess to the palate, great length, and really really fine tannins on the finish.

The oak is well in the background, leaving all that wonderful organic fruit to do the work. This wine tastes like it should be $30 or more a bottle, it's that good. It is easily the best all of this line yet, and should become your house wine.
